Super Global Variables

$_SERVER
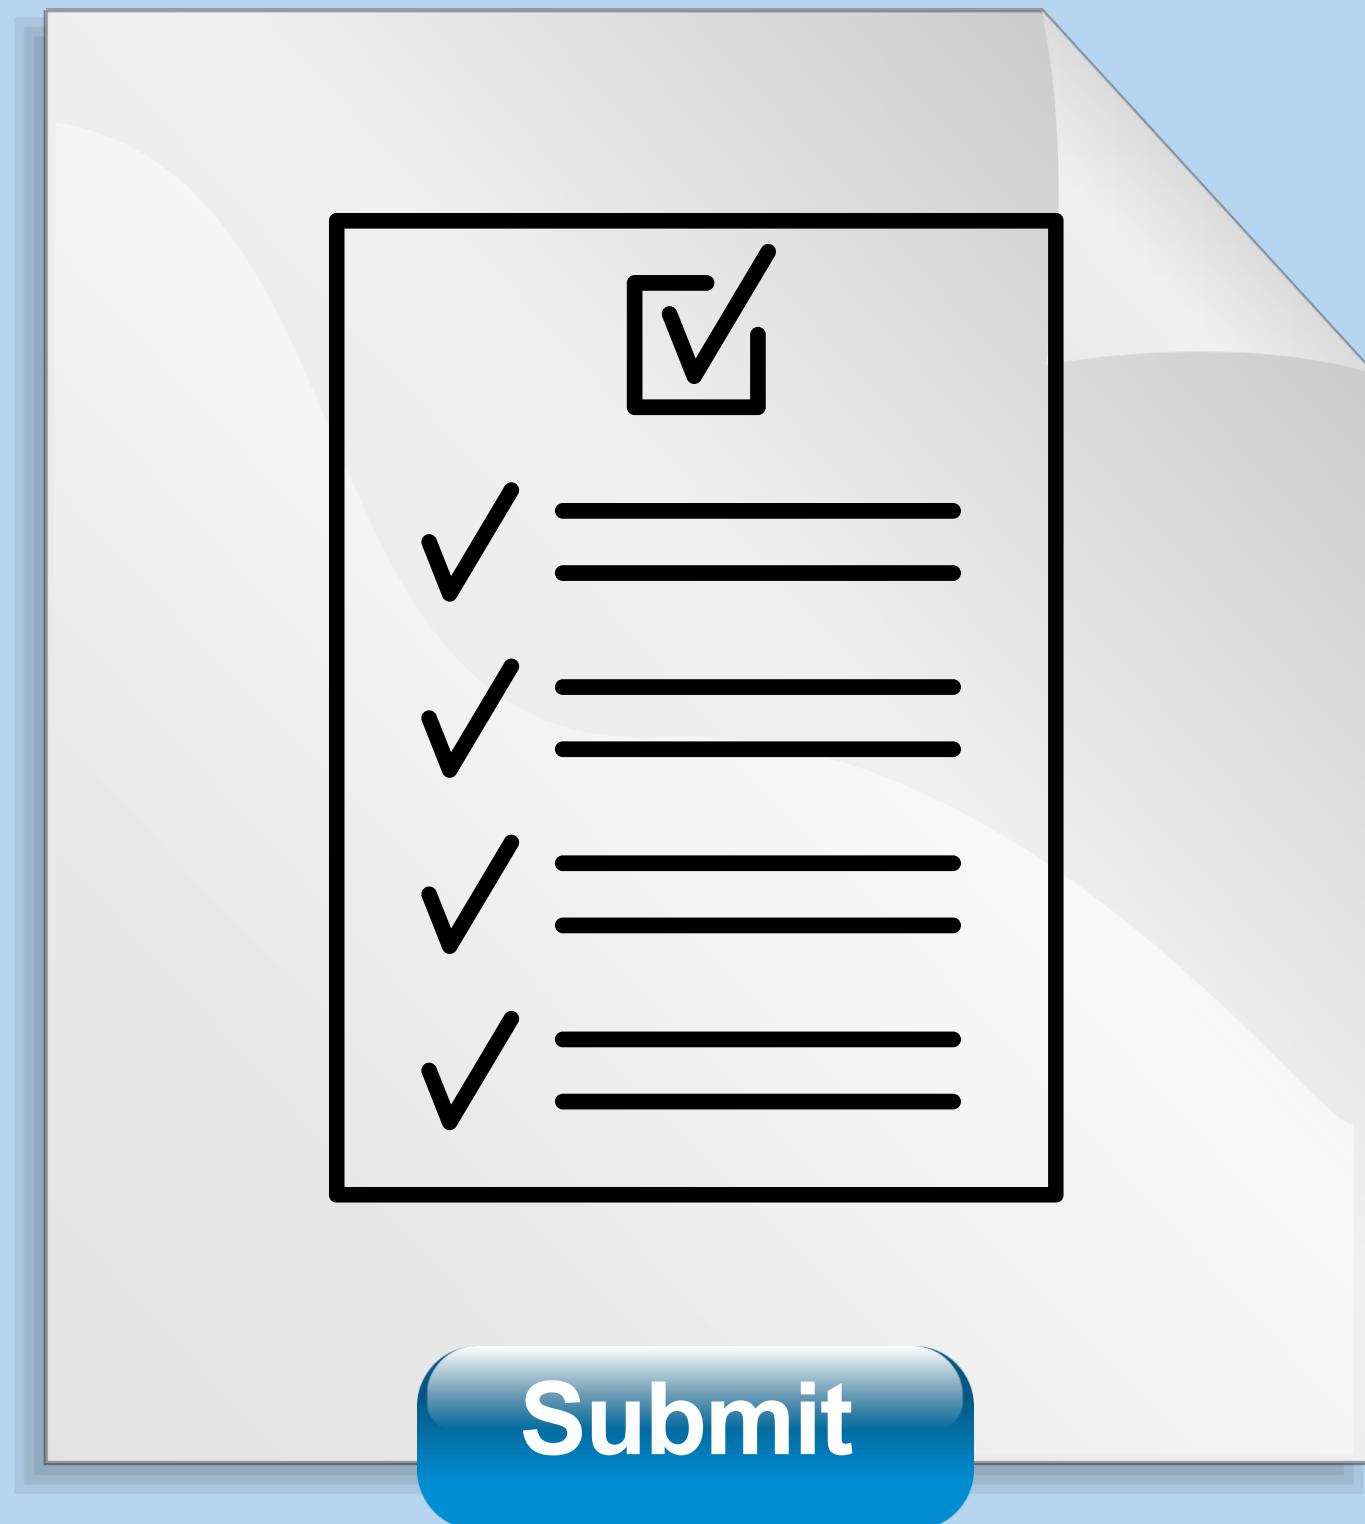

$_SERVER Super Global Variables

- $_SERVER is a superglobal array variable in PHP that contains information about the server environment and the current request.

- It includes various elements such as headers, paths, and script locations.

- The elements within $_SERVER provide valuable information about the server configuration and the current request, which can be useful for various purposes such as authentication, logging, or customizing responses based on the request.

$_SERVER Super Global Variables

File1.php

- Print Data
- Store in Database
- Display data based on condition

Submit